DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-6 and 8-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hayashi (5,994,916).

Regarding claims 1, 5 and 10, Hayashi teaches of a display device driver provided with leads (Fig. 11, reference characters 23(1)-23(p)) coupled to at least one multiplexer (Fig. 1, reference character 47) and to a first switching device (Fig. 1, reference character 40) that enables interruption of a voltage supply from a voltage generator (Fig. 1, reference character 39) to the leads (col. 6, lines 60-67), and also provided with at least one second switching device (Fig. 1, reference character SW) that is coupled to the leads and whereby at least one of the leads can be switched to a selectable potential (col. 7, lines 41-50), wherein the second switching device in the output stage switches the lead that is selected by the multiplexer (col. 6, lines 51-57) to a test reference potential (col. 7, lines 41-50).

Regarding claim 2, Hayashi further teaches of the output stages being provided with at least one multiplexer (Fig. 1, reference character 47) and at least one amplifier (Fig. 1, reference character 35).

Art Unit: 2673

Regarding claim 3, Hayashi further teaches that second switches devices are provided in all output stages (Fig. 1, reference character SW. All output stages can have their own second switch or multiplexer).

Regarding claim 4, Hayashi teaches that the multiplexer can be controlled by a digital signal arranged to switch a voltage present on the leads (col. 6, lines 51-54).

Regarding claim 6, Hayashi further teaches that in a test mode the first switch connects the leads to a common potential and separates them from this potential (col. 6, lines 62-67).

Regarding claim 8, Hayashi further teaches of the switches being controlled separately (The switches are being controlled separately (Fig. 1, reference characters 39, 40, 46 and SW).

Regarding claim 9, Hayashi teaches that the output stages are connected to terminals of a display device (col. 6, lines 48-59).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1 and 10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
